

Health Information Governance

Many of the health care laws and regulations are designed to be the 'floor' on which the U.S. health care system functions to ensure administrative and clinical efficiencies are attained while protecting citizens and their data. Your organization must build upon HIPAA and HITECH obligations that substantially effect information gathering, exchange, use, and security efforts. Impacted are the technical, operational, financial and strategic organizational aspects that produce brand durability and market share.

Imprado provides fresh perspective and thought leadership to your staff as they comply with and build upon HIPAA and HITECH interoperability framework. Our team offers skillset augmentation supporting your team's aptitude and ability to craft information governance and policy frameworks.
