

ROI Project Prioritization

Most organizations have a lengthy "to do" list. Without a good system for tracking, assessing and prioritizing opportunities, items can get lost until they become crises, valuable management time is wasted on ideas that are not fully developed and management may get stuck determining what should come next.

Return on Investment Project Tracking and Prioritization helps you break this vicious circle.

Benefits to You

- Creates an organized and repeatable process for considering new opportunities.
- Makes sure that items and issues don't fall between the cracks.
- Establishes a value-based foundation for resource allocation decision making.

What We Do

- Create a process to track and evaluate business opportunities using your existing technology, and teach you and your staff how to use it.
- Load the tracking mechanism with your current opportunities based on interviews and documentation.
- Perform a return-on-investment analysis of current opportunities to help you prioritize and schedule.
- Teach you and/or your staff how to assess new opportunities for yourselves in a consistent manner.
- Create and/or modify documentation, including policies and procedures, to help you maintain use of the system.
